

Project 1 brainstorm An idea for sousveillance:

- What could you document in your daily activities?
 - Daily Screen Time
- What is something that you see as an issue in society/culture or our use of technology? What is an example of an archive that would address this issue? An archive of how many hours people spend per day?
 - Lifetime on their screens, maybe documenting which applications or softwares consume the majority of their attention
- Can you think of websites you might pull material from for an archive?
 - Console and phone databases to show which applications are consuming most of the screen time.
- What is an imaginary archive you might create
 - ? Screentime index, or Phone addiction, game addiction, social media consumption Phone dependency, screen dependency, technology habits, obsessive phone disorder/compulsion
